

STOLE TO KEEP LOVE, SHE SAYS

Baltimore Girl Faints After Admitting She Embezzled $9,673 for Man.

BALTIMORE, July 20.—Tired and overwrought, Miss Bessie L. Pick, twenty-five years old, accused of stealing $9,673.14 from Alfred G. Goodrich, representative of the National Life Insurance Company of Vermont, collapsed yesterday afternoon in United States court at the conclusion of a series of hearings at which she had testified throughout the day.

At the first hearing before Magistrate Johannsen in Central Police court, Miss Pick "opened her soul to the world," and declared she would have nothing more to do with Frank D. Schultz, thirty years old, the man whom she loved, and for whom she said, she stole. Following her recital of her infatuation for Schultz, she raised her right hand, and in a voice quivering with emotion, swore that she would never leave her mother, the only person to whom she now could turn.

During the day Miss Pick described in detail to Assistant State's Attorney Clark and Detective Hammersla how Schultz "urged her to steal the money for the purpose of supplying him with whiskey and meeting other expenses."

DEVELOPMENTS IN CASE.

As the result of Miss Pick's confession, Schultz was charged with receiving stolen goods and was held in $1,000 bail for action of the grand jury, by Justice Johannsen, central police court. In the same court, Miss Pick was held in the same bail for the grand jury on the charge of stealing the money.

The charge against Mrs. Helma Stearns, forty-nine years old, for keeping alleged disorderly house, was dismissed by Justice Johannsen.

Mrs. Stearns, arraigned before United States Commissioner Supple on charge of alleged violation of the Volstead act in selling whiskey to Schultz on July 3, was released in $1,000 bail for a hearing Friday.

Schultz was arraigned before Commissioner Supple, charged with alleged violation of the Mann "White Slave act," and held in $2,000 bail for hearing Friday.

Mrs. Stearns got bail and was released, but Schultz, after furnishing bail in State court, was unable to obtain bail before Commissioner Supple, and was taken to jail.

COURTROOM PACKED.

Central police court was jammed with men and women when Justice Johannsen called Miss Pick's case, which was disposed of first.

"I am through with Schultz forever," testified Miss Pick, "because I realize now that it was through him that I stole the money. It is useless for me to conceal anything. I got cash and checks, gave the money to Schultz and at times he would call me on the telephone, tell me that all his money was gone and ask me to get more. Why, I even took money and deposited it to an account Schultz had, in bank. He told me, month after month, he needed money and he used to plead with me to get it so that he could get whiskey."

"We frequently stopped at Mrs. Stearns' home; in fact, we had a regular room there. She furnished Schultz with whiskey. The reason I did all this was because I was blindly in love with Schultz and did his bidding. I know now that I have but one person to go to, and that is my mother."

"I swear now," continued the young woman, rising her right hand, "that I shall never again leave my mother. She is the only one for me to go to now."

COLLAPSES IN COURT.

Schultz was next brought in. He was pale and nervous and three days' growth of beard on his face added to his careworn appearance. His clothing, however, fitted him nicely and his linen was clean.

Magistrate Johannsen held him for action of the grand jury. Up stepped a bondsman and Schultz was released on bail. But he did not get far from the room before Deputy United States Marshal Matheson served a Federal warrant on him. Schultz was held prisoner outside the courtroom until Mrs. Stearns' case was dismissed. She, too, was served with a Federal warrant.

Miss Pick was taken before United States Commissioner Supple, where she testified in the "white slave" charge against Schultz and the circumstances of obtaining whiskey at the home of Mrs. Stearns. At the conclusion of her testimony Miss Pick collapsed and was taken to another room by Detective Hammersla.

Mrs. Stearns got bail and got away without delay. A professional bondsman stepped up to go Schultz's bail, but Commissioner Supple declined to accept it.

OLE HANSON TO TESTIFY IN COMMUNISTS' TRIAL

COURT'S PERMISSION TO SEATTLE'S FORMER MAYOR TO TAKE STAND IS BLOW TO DEFENSE.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Another victory has been won by the State in its prosecution of William Gross Lloyd and nineteen other members of the Communist Labor party, charged with conspiracy to overthrow the United States Government.

The big blow to the defense came yesterday when decision was made that Harry J. Wilson, a Secret Service operative, who gained the inner circles of the Communists and learned their plans, and Ole Hanson, former mayor of Seattle, may testify. The defense has been making frantic efforts to bar them from testifying.

When Hanson was mayor of Seattle he put a clamp upon revolutionary activities in his district and came into possession of much evidence.

Harry Wilson, the "minute man" of the Government, took the stand and began recital of his work in Winnipeg and Seattle. Wilson had been employed by the Metal Trades Council of Seattle and his instructions, according to his testimony, were to foment unrest among the soldiers and sailors and to encourage the sentiment for a soviet of workmen.

JAP WOMEN LIKE NURSING.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20.—Japanese women in the colonies along the coast are studying with much enthusiasm the courses of first aid, home hygiene and care of the sick, offered them in the Americanization classes by the Pacific Division of the American Red Cross. The Japanese Association here has translated into Japanese the instruction pamphlets and distributed thousands among their people, and Japanese students in the university are volunteer interpreters for the Red Cross nurses giving class lectures.
